Re: Comments on Advanced Notice of Final Rulemaking Order concerning implementation of the Alternative Energy Portfolio Standards Act of 2004 published in the Pennsylvania Bulletin on May 8, 2015

Docket Number: L-2014-2404361

Dear Pennsylvania Public Utility Commissioners:

Last year was the warmest year on record. Nine of the ten warmest years ever recorded have occurred since 2000. Scientists from around the world warn that greenhouse emissions need to fall by 40-70% within 35 years and to zero within 85 years. Clean energy development is urgently needed. Yet, in spite of this and the clear intent of existing PA statutes to support development of renewable energy, the PUC's recently issued Advance Notice of Final Rulemaking Order continues to include proposed rules that would limit, penalize and otherwise restrict the right of Pennsylvania residents to install clean energy systems—on their own property and using their own money. We find this incredible.

Rules in the proposed final rulemaking order would add new limits on the allowed size of generation systems; would let utilities add new fees just on the bills of people who generate any of their own electricity; and would prevent property owners from putting solar in a sunny field on their own property unless they already use electricity there. We believe these rules are wrong headed, without cause and unneeded. As it is now, residential systems can be up to 50 kW. Customers who generate their own electricity are entitled to full credit for doing so. And, as long as your sunny field is less than 2 miles away, you can put solar there. The current rules are simple, work fine and apply the same to everyone.

- We urge that you withdraw changes to §75.13(a)(3) that would add a new generation limit on system size.
- We urge that you withdraw changes to §75.13(k) that would give the Commission authority to approve utility company requests to charge net metered customers special fees.
- We urge that you withdraw changes to §75.12 and §75.14, adding new load requirements for virtual metering.

Thank you for providing a regulatory environment that supports the responsible use of clean energy in Pennsylvania.

Sincerely,

The Undersigned

The taxing authorities give subsidies to taxpayers to motivate them to install solar, and the PUC wants to add fees. This ploy is obviously the result of lobbying by utilities and the fossil fuel industry. No wonder voters stay home--the system is rigged against common sense.

I see that either the well-gloved reach of the Koch brothers or like-minded pro-fossil fuels capitalists have likely influenced the lawmakers of Pennsylvania's PUC. While even developing nations are looking to a climate-distortion-mitigating future by fostering renewable energy, we in PA should not be punishing and discouraging its use and expansion. Moreover, we should not be paying $3.2 billion in corporate welfare to fossil fuels. BUT WE ARE!

For example, why would the PA PUC allow utility companies to add a new charge on the bills of customers that have solar? We don't know how big the fees may be or when they would start. Nothing more than the utility asking for your okay is needed, and they will likely be buried in large filings so as not to be easily scrutinized. No reason is given for the special charges. Many studies find that the benefits of net-metered clean energy far outweigh the costs. MAREA believes customers should not be singled out for extra fees without cause, especially those who are generating clean energy at the place where it is used.

Also, why should utilities, not system owners, decide how big each solar installation could be, one by one? Certainly not for grid management or technical purposes. Your concern that owners will oversize systems for the purpose of gaining "excessive" benefits from selling excess generation back to the grid is completely unjustified. The average residential system receiving PA Sunshine Solar rebates is just 7.7 kW. Solar ratepayers are as logical as other utility consumers: The payments for excess generation are way too little to justify overbuilding solar.

Moreover, first round of comments have motivated the PA PUC to changed the new rule from 110% of electricity consumption to 200%. However, this means that every homeowner and small business wanting to install solar would have to prove to their utility company that the system will generate less than 200% of the electricity they use. Ratepayers know far better than utility companies as to the system size that is right for the ratepayer. Pennsylvania already has a rule for maximum size—50 kW for a residence and 3 (or 5) MW for a business, period. It's simple, works fine and is the same for everyone.

Finally, currently ratepayers who wish to add solar on your property at a location that is not already metered (say a sunny field far from the house), can add the solar wherever desired and put in a new meter. The utility company understands that both meters are for the same customer and lets the what the solar ratepayers generate count toward the electricity the ratepayer home uses. This is called virtual net metering and is current PA law. (The ratepayer must own or rent the solar sight, and it has to be less than two miles away.) The PA PUC has proposed a new rule that, in order to qualify for virtual net metering, the solar ratepayer must already use electricity in the place where he/she wants to put the solar. Well what if the ratepayer doesn't already use electricity in such a place, like a sunny field? Again, the current law and rules are simple and work fine. This rule would place another unwarranted restriction on urgently needed private investment in renewable energy.

These rules have the potential to add more costs to solar installations without any benefit to the public. They would increase utility control of what needs to be more of a partnership between small solar residential and the utilities.

I think it is greedy and so upsetting for the utility companies to punish those residents who are actually concerned about the future of our planet and want to do the right thing. We should be promoting the installation of clean energy sources of power which have so many benefits including: energy independence, clean air quality, energy security, and much more. These new rules which are meant to make it near impossible for individuals to install clean energy on their own property are selfish and should be removed!

One of the rules would let utility companies add a new charge on the bills of customers that have solar. Up to now, this has not been allowed for typical solar in Pennsylvania. No one knows how big the fees may be or when they would start. All your utility company would have to do is ask the PUC for an okay. These requests will probably be buried in large filings, well out of sight of the public eye. No reason is given for the special charges. Many studies find that the benefits of net-metered clean energy far outweigh the costs. Customers should not be singled out for extra fees without cause, especially those who are generating clean energy at the place where it is used.

To the PA PUC, do not pass restrictive rules on solar power. It is a new technology that needs your full support. Distributed Solar PV is one of our best technologies to move from carbon and nuclear-based energy sources. As the governing body overseeing utilities in PA it is your responsibility to ensure the best energy outcomes for all and create the conditions for solar power to flourish.

These electric companies just want people to keep buying overpriced electricity so they can make more money, especially from the poor folk who are stuck with PE.

Let THEM construct solar generation facilities and sell it to people and help everyone. But then they would probably charge even more. They see individual generation as competition to their profits.

It is all based on the greed of large companies.

Pennsylvania should be a leader and encourage renewable energy sources. Surely the electric companies could be leading the way to use private solar panels as well as larger company owned solar and computerize useage so that nonrenewable resources of elect tric could be reduced.

The PA PUC should be encourage the clean production of energy at every opportunity. Those who have invested in clean energy for their homes are still utility customers they just produce a portion of the energy the use with clean systems right at their home. They don't deserve any extra charges. I have a grid tied solar system, and I already pay a small fee to my utility to use the grid. The power companies hold all the cards, and allowing them to single out smart energy users for increased charges is a bad idea.

PA taxpayers already foot the bill to the tune of $700+ per person each year for subsidies for the oil and gas industry. To add another expense on the backs of Pennsylvanians appears to be an attempt to make solar unaffordable and keep us hooked on dirty energy and is not forward thinking. PUC should do what they can to make clean, renewable energy affordable and attainable.

With ongoing issues continuing to arise with fossil fuel development and usage (depletion of resources, GHG's, global warming, strong arm tactics to take land, etc), it seems to me that the PUC, and all other governing bodies must start acting responsibly for the people they represent rather than just for large international corporations and do much more to increase development and adoption of renewable energy sources.

Technology is moving faster than fossil fuel lobbyists. Many inverter manufacturers are ready for the day that net metering becomes too difficult for residential customers. We will stop providing clean power to the grid, and keep it for ourselves. Inverter software is already available for "zero sell" where the inverter produces only as much power as is needed in the home. Tesla Battery is producing a high performance residential storage unit that will absorb extra power from solar arrays for use at night. Why turn your backs on free, privately financed solar energy? It is illogical to the extreme.

I am a retired USAF officer whose duties while assigned as a professor at the USAF Academy included the development of academic courses, one of which was "Physical Meteorology." A significant part of that course dealt with solar and terrestrial radiation. PLEASE DO NOT PROHIBIT ANY PENNSYLVANIAN FROM CAPTURING SOLAR ENERGY, CONVERTING IT TO ALTERNATING CURRENT ELECTRICITY AND THEN USING AND DISTRIBUTING AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE. We citizens of EARTH, the USA, and PENNSYLVANIA are richly blessed with an abundant source of Solar radiation which, when captured by good old fashioned "American ingenuity," will lead to far better lifestyles and the unharnessing of brighter economic outlooks for Pennsylvanians and the nation.

There is enough energy hitting the earth from the fusion reactor in the sky we know as the sun to support all of mankind's energy needs many, many times over. We need to make it a substantial source of electricity sooner rather than later to help mitigate climate change caused by the burning of fossil fuels. Make rules that lower the barriers to solar energy, not raise them! I urge PUC to look around at the rule making occurring in other states. We depend on the PUC to make rules that help lower the cost of electricity for citizens of PA. That is what distributed solar energy generation does, besides helping the environment. - David Lischner, PhD

Energy laws need to encourage solar power.
To tax, add fees, or in any other way increase the cost to a solar power user is just wrong. To put in place any law or regulation that sends more money to big business based on fossil fuel use is wrong.
To enact any law or regulation that discourages solar or other natural, sustainable power is just wrong. Do the

On behalf of my granddaughters, Bethany and Bailey, I urgently oppose proposed rule making that would impose increased cost and hardship to individuals who seek to install renewable energy sources ahead of the subsidized fossil fuel sourced energy companies who seek relief from these changes..

PA residents need every incentive possible to off-set fossil fuel dependency and proactively take personal steps on their own behalf. Regulations now in place are NOT BROKEN. There is nothing to be "fixed" by this attempt to deny competition.

The proposed regulations would discourage renewable energy investment. There are already HUGE SUBSIDIES for fossil fuel industries, Do NOT penalize me and others who wish to raise renewable sources above the pitiful 14% level by giving existing industry a means to make it harder for us to compliment the grid.

This is NOT the time to lose momentum on this. Pennsylvania needs to be a leader in this industry and a bulwark against incremental and astronomical demands on our electric grid. We can grow jobs while doing the right, timely, painfully obvious thing, which is to lower demand on the system and source energy more intelligently with our grandchildren and great-grand children's futures in mind.

I spend my professional life helping Pennsylvanians lower their electric use and live in safer, less expensive more comfortable homes. Believe me - we're up against it with the constant onslaught of new devices and things you really should be legislating against - like ridiculously high phantom loads 24/7 on cable boxes and the like.

Thank you for doing the right thing.

Global warming is real and caused by man. We must reduce our carbon emissions significantly to have a habitable world. So stop ignoring this problem and work on solutions.

Wind and solar energy sources are not polluting. They must be given every break possible so that they can be fully utilized and become affordable. The oil ,coal, gas and natural gas companies don't want this to happen. They want us to continue to use fossil fuels so they can continue to profit. Apparently they don't care that the Earth may become uninhabitable or at least an uncomfortable and dangerous place to live.All they care about is their profit.Policies based only on profit are not good policies

.This goes for electric companies too. They should have no right to limit anyone from generating their own power on their own property. We should be encouraging citizens to install wind and solar. Certainly not restricting their ability to use solar power.

why would the PUC adopt these new rules if not for the simple reason they want to hinder the spread of solar energy and further the interests of more traditional, expensive, and environmentally harmful sources of power? The PUC should rather be encouraging the spread of solar power, but there is no pay off in that for the PUC. This is just one more instance where the oil, gas and coal barons own the PUC. For can the PUC not be on the side of the environment?

Gentle-people,

This is the time to promote solar/wind energy. Not the time to hamper its adoption.

Thanking you in advance for your time and consideration in this matter.

These actions to cripple solar are an infringement on my rights to protect the environment and my family. It makes no sense except to help protect an immoral, inefficient, reckless, highly subsidized industry which can not compete any more. I take this action personally and I will do everything I can to punish any lawmaker who sells the people out. You saw how quickly coal economically collapsed as an industry. I believe that death spiral is very close for oil and gas. There will be no mercy for those public officials who betray the public good for private gain. My family, the environment, the nation and civilization are at stake. Stop the dirty polluters.

Favoring one type of energy over another is not free enterprise. Too many industries such as big energy are not only getting special subsidies but also lax regulation while they pollute our country's air, water, and land. We need newer and cleaner sources of energy before it's game over for our environment and all of us with it.

For many of us, producing electric from solar is to help combat air pollution caused by power companies using coal. To give those power companies, not those trying to solve the problem a break, is not my idea of forward thinking.

The initially utilities were happy to have solar, it helped to reduce peak demand and thus they did not have to build more generation plants. These economies have not changed. Why should "vendors" (solar power suppliers- customers with solar panels) be charged for already benefiting the utilities?

Please give solar the same chance at succeeding that all the other electric generating facilities have. Many if not all other sources are subsidized in some form or other. We need solar in the mix to keep a well rounded mix of sources to chose from. When there are only two or three at most, if something happens to one of them, the others can not keep up with demand which could cause power grid problems.

Thank You for listening to my views.

- We urge that you withdraw changes to §75.13(a)(3) that would add a new generation limit on system size.
- We urge that you withdraw changes to §75.13(k) that would give the Commission authority to approve utility company requests to charge net metered customers special fees.
- We urge that you withdraw changes to §75.12 and §75.14, adding new load requirements for virtual metering.

I'm looking to install solar panels in the next few weeks. Any kind of fee levied by PECO would run contrary to the existing federal and state incentives and be enormously counterproductive relative to the wide ranging costs, paid by taxpayers, of continued consumption of coal-fired electricity additional point-source solar will effectively be replacing.

Stop putting up roadblocks for the solar industry. We are falling so far behind the curve in conservation/renewable opportunities.

Consider the latest from France: Rooftops in France are going green.

Under a law passed last week by the French Parliament, new buildings in commercial zones must partially cover their roofs with plants or solar panels.

I paid a lot of money for solar installation that was a huge struggle for me to afford because I believe in energy conservation and environmental causes. It was a big sacrifice and I purposely went without many other luxuries or necessities to make it happen. To penalize those of us who made responsible choices and sacrifices for our environment at large is reprehensible. I personally urge you to reward those of us who have made these sacrifices and not penalize us. DO NOT PASS THIS BILL! PLEASE! Why would we be penalized for going with renewable, reusable energy which is encouraged even by our President and ALL global leaders? This will set us back generations and discourage others from following the lead of those of us who have made the positive steps towards helping our world, environment, and community. STOP THIS NEGATIVE DECISION

It's vital that we get regulations that encourage solar and other alternative energies, not reduce them. We simply can't continue with the same outdated energy production methods.

There does not seem to be a good reason to limit solar energy production and implementation. These rules changes would stifle free enterprise in the solar energy field and reverse years of a path down to producing more renewable energy and reducing our reliance on fossil fuels.

It is an absolute disgrace and completely short-sighted that PA would try to hamper the efforts of homeowners and businesses to install solar panels at this time of climate catastrophe. We should have legislation supporting our efforts!!!

The proposed rules restrict fair trade in that there is no constitutional restriction for an individual to generate their own power and be subject to the limits of the electric monopoly companies. As a 100% voter this is one issue that would control my, and everyone I know, vote! I live in a rural area of Pa. As such the electric line to our area is at the. End of the line we frequently endure outages due to events along this long line. Also since agriculture is a top industry in Pa. Energy independence for farm production is a matter of National Security. Extended cyber attack, similar to the disruption a few years ago on the East coast could quickly go from an inconvenience to a disaster for the cows and farmers alike! Let's move out of the dark ages of energy into the sunlight and find the answers there or the ones blowing in the wind! Either way get the miners out of the dark dank mines, let. The hills be for views not surface mining and destruction! We currently have one of the oldest reactor in Beaver County and the infamous Three mile island enough said! The future is now it can be ours don't hold us back in the dark ages!

- We urge that you withdraw changes to §75.13(a)(3) that would add a new generation limit on system size.
- We urge that you withdraw changes to §75.13(k) that would give the Commission authority to approve utility company requests to charge net metered customers special fees.
- We urge that you withdraw changes to §75.12 and §75.14, adding new load requirements for virtual metering.

Thank you for providing a regulatory environment that supports the responsible use of clean energy in Pennsylvania.

I oppose the limits strongly. I made a big investment at my property for creating green power and reducing my carbon footprint why should I be penalized for doing the ethically correct thing? I have been supplementing the grid through my PV array with very little payback. I do not receive the same return on investment that the power company does for the power that I create. I should not be charged for sending green power to my electrical supplier's grid.

Let the PUC regulations stand as they are. The large utility companies refuse to adapt their business models to renewables rather than fossil fuel generation & upgrade the grid & infrastructure to accommodate renewable generation. The public Should Not be penalized or be charged for these long overdue & necessary upgrades!

Clean energy development is urgently needed. Yet, the PUC continues to include proposed rules that would limit, penalize and otherwise restrict the right of Pennsylvania residents to install clean energy systems—on their own property and using their own money. Petroleum's time is past (and the many recent spills have greatly damaged the environment). Renewable energy sources such as solar are the present and the future. However, those utilizing solar power should not be penalized for doing so by being charged additional fees (probably proposed by oil companies to discourage people from using anything but oil).

PUC....I am outraged that the PUC is obstructing the evolution of solar power in Pa. by adding unnecessary, stupid rules that hurt solar customers, solar power growth and make very simple rules more complicated. With climate change accelerating at faster rate than previously thought, the PUC should be doing all it can to promote solar and wind and other renewables and making programs, rules, regs simple, ethical and fair for all. The PUC is acting like a bunch of damn Republicans.....obstructing; making things more difficult and complicated; against anything and everything that makes sense, is fair and equitable and for everything that is non-sencical, unfair, unequitable and dumb.

Please don't add any fees to the utility bills of people who are supplying renewable energy to the power grid. They should not be punished for being part of the energy solution. Thank you and I hope you will do the right thing by eliminating any fees, taxes or other charges on utility bills of those who are providing clean, renewable energy to the power grid and not consider adding any of these charges in the future.

While the utilities have valid concerns about what could arise in the future, these are just that - future possibilities. Considering the slump in fossil fuel prices, solar must be in a challenging situation. And yet it is imperative that we develop more environmentally friendly energy sources such as solar. Certainly now is not a good time to discourage the development of solar resources. Actually the opposite would be a more appropriate path.

It is critically important for EVERYONE to do all we can to turn away from dependence on fossil fuels. This means that blocking people from doing all they can is not a good decision. New ways and changes will have to be found to solve problems with the grid and they must not block the development of solar capacity. People who are able to install large solar arrays on their own property need to be incorporated as part of the grid, not penalized for it. We are presently very far from doing all that we MUST do to avoid catastrophic climate change. When making the rules, please remember that part. Thank you!

This appears to be a profit increasing grab by the power companies which will be nurtful to those of us who have spent large amounts to help conserve energy by converting to solar and who have yet to recoup OUR investment in solar power.

The federal government is giving people incentives who install solar panels; and, until recently, Pennsylvania did the same. Why is that? To take pressure off of the utilities so that they wouldn't have to install costly, polluting power plants. These new proposed bills would undermine the original efforts to supply additional clean power without having to spend exorbitant amounts to build onto the existing grid That pollutes our environment.

The rules PUC is proposing are in contradiction to the free enterprise basis of the US economy allowing utilities to control the market

PUC should also consider standardized rules allowing solar energy generators to organize collectively to gain access to the wholesale market.

Day by day I learn about pipelines forced through mature stands of trees in our state forests - so much destruction of Penn's Woods, all done in the cause of burning more gas and accelerating disastrous global warming. When I hear about proposed anti-solar regulations from PUC, it's yet another sign of state officialdom out of touch with the pressing needs of our earth (Pennsylvania included, of course) and in the pockets of the fossil fuel industry.

Please reject these proposed changes.

I understand that utility companies have had a monopoly on electrical energy in this country, but isn't it time for the consumer to have some rights as well? If solar energy can help deter environmental degradation and allow consumers to save on their utility bills, I would hope that you consider the benefits instead of the obvious profit losses to utility companies. If those same companies started transitioning over to renewable energy, like solar and wind, they would eventually realize higher profits again because they would be providing the materials and the grid use that people who don't provide their own would need. The future of energy lies in renewable resources, not carbon-based resources.

Solar is one of the cleanest energies available, and we need to do everything possible to promote its use in PA. Our family has been considering installing solar panels on our very steep, south-facing roof of our home for a while now, as soon as we save enough money to buy them. Credits for selling excess energy from our solar panels will help to offset the initial up-front cost. Thank you!

Legislating against the production of electricity from renewable resources is akin to restricting a farmer's capacity to grow food. It doesn't make sense to further tilt the legislative advantage towards large utility companies in an attempt to help THEIR bottom line. We, as a population, should be working toward reducing dependence on conventional sources of energy and this flies in the face of that.

Please let us, the solar company along with conversation with the homeowner decide what size system is right for them. Does the PUC really want to go out and measure the home and do a layout for them or leave it up to the professionals?

When will our state and federal governments start working toward saving our children's future? We have done nothing to address the emergency situation concerning Atmospheric Global Warming. It is a moral obligation we have in our hands. Please, please start being part of the solution.

We need to encourage solar use. If the utilities need money to repair transmission lines, they can petition to raise the distribution charge for everyone, not just solar owners.

The risk that a misguided legislature or PUC might punish me with net metering fees -- at the behest of utilities, who want to stifle competition -- is the single biggest reason that I personally have not pursued solar for my home. I know what has happened in other states. Far from indulging the monopolistic utilities, if you provided a strong guarantee that there would be no such punitive fees -- now or in the future -- then I would pursue solar immediately. My HOA might still forbid it, but that's another matter.

The Marcellus Shale Play is finite, will not last long, jeopardizes our water supplies and adds Green house gasses to an already overheated atmosphere driving multi billion dollar extreme energy events which will eventually cripple PA, The sun, wind geothermal and hydro provides an unending source of energy and ads no greenhouse gasses to the atmosphere, has little impact on our water supplies. Lets develop it as fast as possible....NOW

Once again, the utility wants to take advantage of the consumers!

There is NO reason to add such a charge.

Cost of solar is plummeting.

Why should we be punished for making Pennsylvania a better place?

Please stop this blatant attempt at greed.

Thank you.

I especially object to allowing the Commission to set fees on Net-Metered customers, as that seems counter to the entire purpose, as well as will impact the financial return on investments made by ratepayers. The Commission is often biased toward utilities by nature, and should not have the ability to say that the utilities rate of return is more important than individual citizens!
